Chapter One

In my younger and more vulnerable years my father gave me some advice.

This is a test page for Gilded Pages.

Chapter One (cont.)

Whenever you feel like criticizing anyone, he told me, just remember.

A second page of honest reading.

Chapter Two

About half way between West Egg and New York the motor road joins the railroad.

The third and last page.